SHIP PURCHASE BILL NOW BEFORE HOUSE

SHIPPING BOARD IS PROPOSED

Appropriation of $40,000,000 Desired So That Government Can Go Into Business.

Adjourned at 5:58 p. m. until noon Saturday.

Address delivered in celebration of 106th anniversary of President Lincoln's birthday.
Adjourned at 6:35 p. m. until 11 a. m. Saturday.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The fight over the government's ship purchase bill was shifted today from the senate to the house. In the senate the measure, blocked by determined republican opposition, was displaced as the unfinished business and a cloture rule, designed to forcibly terminate the filibuster was taken up.

Administration forces began work on a compromise bill to be passed through the house. Leaders on that side of the capitol, however, were far from confident that the proposed compromise would unite the divided senate democrats or win support from republicans. They declared the administration did not concede enough in the proposed compromise to obtain its passage.

The cloture rule presented in the senate met the same republican filibuster that had blocked the shipping bill, and tonight a conference of the democrats of the senate was called for tomorrow to consider the advisability of continuing the fight for the cloture proposal or of abandoning it and returning to a direct contest for the shipping bill.

The Measure in House.
The new bill in the house was developed after Postmaster General Burleson went to the capitol and definitely rejected the compromise measure advanced by Representative Kitchen of North Carolina. The Kitchen proposal contemplated making the shipping bill a purely temporary emergency measure and would have taken the government out of the shipping business for two years after the termination of the European war. Mr. Kitchen declared that conference had assured the passage of this measure through both branches of congress.

The administration's counter proposal as it was being framed tonight would organize a shipping board with an appropriation of forty million dollars to engage in shipping for a period ending two years after the termination of the war. Then the ships would be turned over to the secretary of the navy to be leased or operated in the merchant service in his discretion. This plan to place the government permanently in the shipping business was the point insisted upon by the administration. It is also the provision against which the senate republican filibuster is chiefly aimed.

Representative Kitchen and other house leaders said tonight that with this provision in the measure, it would be impossible to force it through the senate in this congress.

Special Rule Expected.
The administration proposal, which embraces the week's bill, for the organization of a merchant marine, naval auxiliary, the Gore compromise shipping bill and amendments probably will be brought into the house next week. It is expected that the naval affairs committee will report the Gore bill, which has already passed the senate and that a special rule will then be brought in clearing the way for the passage of the measure with the administration amendments. This measure would place the compromise before the senate as a house amendment to a bill already passed.

Representative Kitchen said tonight that he had no hope of the administration compromise passing the senate.

Navy Mail Line Wanted.
The weeks bill, to be retained in the proposed composite measure would provide for the establishment of "United States navy mail lines between the United States and South America and between the United States and the countries of Europe." It would authorize the secretary of the navy to employ auxiliary vessels at his discretion in general mail, freight and passenger operation.

For the operation of these naval auxiliaries any naval officer who might be available, would be employed. The ship purchase bill to be added to the weeks measure is the same as the Gore compromise. With relation to the purchase of beligerent owned merchant ships in American harbors, the only limitation would be that in buying vessels during continuance of the European war, "no purchase shall be made in a way which will disturb the present conditions of neutrality."

Retain Alaskan Item.
Washington, Feb. 12.—After a long discussion, the house today voted to retain in the sundry civil bill an appropriation of $2,000,000 for use of the Alaska engineering commission on the government Alaskan railway project. Practically all of the $1,000,000 appropriated last year for this purpose has been spent in surveys and other work preliminary to actual construction.

Interesting Show at Light Office This Afternoon

Tom Burrows, world famed as "Am I" will give an exhibition of his powers to resist the temptation to smile in the Texas Power and Light company's show room windows, 703 Austin Street, between 2:30 and 4:30 this afternoon.

Burrows got his nick name from the question, "Am I doll, man or woman?" He will be dressed as a French chef and will demonstrate the value of natural gas which will be piped into Waco soon.

Goose Girl Pleases Audiences at Queen

"The Goose Girl" with Marguerite Clark in the character part will be presented at the Queen theatre again today. Miss Clark has won nationwide recognition in "Wildflower" and "The Crucible."

At the Queen yesterday the moving picture story was frequently applauded. "The Goose Girl" gives Miss Clark opportunity to play another of those artless country girl parts for which she is famous.

The story is of a baby princess who is kidnapped by spies at the instigation of a count who has ambitions for his own baby daughter. The count passes his own child off for the princess, the princess becoming a goose girl.

A beautiful love story runs through the play and leaves the pleasant taste of all ending well, which is always desired by movie audiences.

England's Answer Received.
Washington, Feb. 12.—Transmission of the first installment of Great Britain's supplementary note in answer to the American protest against interference with neutral shipping by the British fleet was completed today and the state department's cable experts began deciphering it.

About 3,000 code words have been received and it is understood that twice as much more is to come, it probably will be two or three days before the communication is ready for consideration by Secretary Bryan.

Beyond the fact that this supplementary note is generally an expansion of the arguments briefly set out in the preliminary British note of January 10, little is known here of its contents. It is known, however, among the new matters introduced is the recent German decree expropriating the grain supply of the empire.

In the preliminary note the British government admitted that foodstuffs should not be detained and put into a prize court without presumption that they were intended for the armed forces of the enemy or the enemy government. But it was also stated that the British government could not give an unlimited and unconditional undertaking in view of what was termed Germany's departure from accepted rules of civilization.

That Great Britain would give assurance of no intention to sanction the general use of neutral flags by British merchant ships was the belief of British officials. But the widest sort of speculation is based on the variety of conception of Germany's plan in waging a submarine war on merchant ships was heard as to the probable response of the Berlin foreign office.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, declined to discuss the note to Germany as he had received no advices from Berlin concerning it and the British embassy was also silent.

What excited most attention in congress and among diplomats, however, was the serious tone of the notes even though qualified by the polite terms of diplomat usage. The termination of the United States government to have the American flag used only by ships entitled to fly it and the warning that Germany would be held to a strict accountability if American lives or vessels were lost in the attacks on merchant vessels in the newly delimited sea zones of war, were practically the sole topics of discussion.

While there was no authorized expression it was evident that the neutral diplomats in general gave both notes their approval because of the identity of interest of their governments. United States in the circles of statesmen. There were suggestions that the argument of the American government would be followed in a joint protest to both Germany and Great Britain by the three Scandinavian countries as well as separate representations from the other neutrals of Europe.

Discussing comments upon differences in the two notes high officials said the cases were not parallel as the United States had little ground in international law for protest the occasional use of a neutral flag by a vessel of a belligerent when escaping capture and evasion of the objection of the neutral ensign could be raised only on general moral principles or on the ground of unneighborliness and serious inconvenience rather than on any technical rule of international law.

For the communication to Germany, administration officials who helped prepare the document emphasized the point that the American government was not on the firm ground of international right as it has been a long established principle, they said, based on innumerable precedents that a merchant vessel without means of protection must be visited first by an enemy warship and given an opportunity to surrender or save its passengers before violence is applied. Again it was declared that the necessity for a strong warning was most compelling, lest the sinking of an American vessel or loss of American lives give rise to a critical situation with alarming possibilities.

Interest in the situation was heightened by the addition of another diplomatic difficulty with Germany over the interference by German military authorities with mail communications of American Minister Henry Van Dyke at the Hague and Luxembourg. A formal inquiry was sent to Berlin concerning the incident and officials hoped it would be satisfactorily adjusted, relying on the uniform courtesy hitherto manifested by the German government in dealing with American ships.

OFFICIAL CIRCLES WAIT FOR REPLIES

MUCH SPECULATION IN WASHINGTON OVER NOTES TO GERMANY AND ENGLAND.

AMERICAN WARNING SURPRISE

Serious Tone of Messages in Regard to Use and Respect of Flag Noted.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Reading of the official texts of the two notes from the United States to Germany and Great Britain developed today an intense interest among officials and diplomats in the question of what would be the nature of the replies from the two belligerent governments.

That Great Britain would give assurance of no intention to sanction the general use of neutral flags by British merchant ships was the belief of British officials. But the widest sort of speculation is based on the variety of conception of Germany's plan in waging a submarine war on merchant ships was heard as to the probable response of the Berlin foreign office.

Columbus Street Baptists Prepare for Big Institute

Preparations are being made by the congregation of the Columbus Street Baptist church for a mid-winter Bible Institute, which begins tomorrow and will continue eight days. This mid-winter institute has become a part of the calendar of the Columbus street church and constitutes a large feature of its work. It will be attended this year by delegations from out of the city and from all Central Texas. There are three special days: Tuesday, February 16, an all-day workshop conference for Central Texas will be held; Thursday, the 18th, is Woman's Day, and Friday, the 19th, Young People's Day.

On Wednesday evening, the 17th, following the address of Dr. Henry Alford Porter of Dallas, there will be a reception in the church parlors, to which everybody will be welcomed.

Prof. Genheimer to Visit Other Schools

While on his trip to Cincinnati to attend the convention of superintendents and principals, E. T. Genheimer, principal of the Waco high school, will visit a number of the leading high schools of the middle west. Professor Genheimer is anxious to see the workings of the schools in order to get pointers as to special courses. He will especially be interested in commercial courses, manual training and domestic science. In fact he will make a thorough investigation of high school methods while on the trip. Professor J. C. Lattimore heretofore has attended the convention, but the privilege was granted to Professor Genheimer this year. Waco high school is lacking in few if any of the features of schools in cities the size of Waco in any part of the country, but the board is anxious to keep the system up to this standard. Waco has no commercial course at present at the high school.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

By special invitation of Mrs. Edward Rotan, the Art League held its February session, and it was a busy one, within a private home. Not only the invitation, but Mrs. Rotan gave

The speakers reviewed the Art League and its influences. Mrs. H. C. Lindsey, who has been active in promotion of the league ever since its organization, reviewed what had been accomplished. This means every public building which stands for education has received gift from the league, exhibits of good art have been tendered the public, three good pictures are the nucleus for an art gallery for the city, these are some among the many things touched by Mrs. Lindsey. Mrs. J. W. Hale spoke of Mrs. Jean Sherwood of Chicago and the wonderful impetus she has been for things artistic in our city. Miss Bernice Young paid tribute to the founder of the Art League, the late beloved C. H. Cox. Much of this was a revelation to the more recent members. It led all to higher ideals for Art League work hereafter. Mrs. E. P. Thompson was present as a guest. Mrs. Walsch was enrolled a new member. The chief business was discussion as to whether the league should present Bailey of Boston to a Waco audience next week. Nothing final was agreed. The last payment upon the third picture is ready to be made. It was voted to combine the three papers read and to file the same in the public library. Mrs. A. H. Newman, as president, was in the chair. About thirty were present.

MRS. THOMAS McCULLOUGH FOR THE LITERARY CLUB

The regular bi-weekly session of the Literary Club found a special hostess in a former popular member, Mrs. Thomas McCullough. Knowing that the Literary Club programs are ever interesting, Mrs. McCullough invited from her immediate neighborhood the Mesdames R. L. Crosthwaite, Ed McCullough and Haney. The subject for the afternoon was Nathaniel Hawthorne and his immortal "Scarlet Letter." The Mesdames John Bonner, J. W. Downs and Mattie D. Willis presented the divisions in this subject. Especially were the remarks of Mrs. Bonner interesting, since they touched upon an almost unknown quantity in Hawthorne's existence, the love of a woman. She accounted for why none of Hawthorne's romances introduced this subject, also, why he had sweetened his own life. Mrs. Willis compared the literary phase and merits between the two greatest of Hawthorne, Marble Faun and Scarlet Letter. Mrs. Mattie D. Willis as chairman of the program, committed brought forth discussion as to what the next year book shall contain.

A SILVER ANNIVERSARY FINDS EVENING GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. DeCordova of North Twentieth street, could not allow a notable event within their home to pass unrecognized. This was the first notable completion of the first quarter century of married happiness; in other words, the silver wedding anniversary. Invitations were issued to a number of friends, each of whom upon the instant remembered the patron of the twenty-fifth anniversary. Each was pleased to add a piece to the collection of silver which Mr. and Mrs. DeCordova now carry forward to the day when, he hopes, the same friends may present the pieces of gold. The time passed quite informally, with jolly games and general good cheer. The coming of Saint Valentine was combined with the reminder of Cupid and his hearts twenty-five years ago; so, with feasts of hearts, the decorations were made. The heart favor lay upon each plate, and the silver glint was intertwined with the festoons of love. It was thus that past happiness was celebrated and future happiness invoked, for Mr. and Mrs. DeCordova. Incidentally, it may be remarked that the name of DeCordova is one of the first ever heard in this country, for all Waco stands upon the grant of land given by the Mexican government for the first white settler, the father of Mr. DeCordova.

A BAD CASE AND ITS RELIEF

Lady Tells Details of Ten Years Of Suffering Which Now Lies Behind Her.

Wallace, Va.—Mrs. Mary West of this town says: "About ten years ago I had very poor health, and for five years it steadily got worse. I could not stand on my feet. I got so I could only drag about in the room. Most of the time I was not able to do my work."

"I had terrible bearing-down pains, my back ached all the time and was very weak. I could scarcely carry anything and suffered awfully when I lifted anything. The muscles in my abdomen were so weak I could scarcely lift myself up straight, and I thought I would surely grow crooked. I had difficulty in walking, it was so painful. I suffered in hips and back and could hardly raise up at all. At times, I couldn't sit on the chair, would have to lie down. I was in such agony. I just sat around and cried."

"At this time, about five years ago, I began to take Cardui, at my mother's insistence. After two or three weeks' use I saw an improvement. The pains got less gradually until they disappeared. In two months I could walk without pain and could do most of my work. For about three years my improvement was steady and continued until I had back my health and strength."

"The cure has been permanent, for I have been in good health for the last two years, due to my having taken Cardui, which effected the cure." All druggists sell Cardui. Try it.

Going from Michigan to Frisco Fair on a Big Motor Truck

Traveling 2,500 miles in a motor truck on the same air in the tires is some performance, and is a testimonial to the excellence of the tires and the skill of the driver. It is even more convincing when it is known that the truck was overloaded 40 per cent. This is what was done by Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Brown of Lansing, Michigan, who were in Waco yesterday. They are three months out on their way to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco, Mr. Brown expects to reach the exposition city in April. From Waco they will go to San Antonio, and thence on to Frisco. After a stay of several months at the exposition they will return to their home in Lansing, taking a northern route. Mr. and Mrs. Brown claim that the advantage of cross-country trip riding outdoors more than overbalance the small discomforts. They keep a log of the trip, and a diary, and also take many photographs of people and scenes along the route.

In the truck is carried all necessary baggage for the couple. In addition they carry a cinematograph and several films of motion pictures. These are pictures of a recent famous African expedition, and are shown at towns to pay expenses of the trip. To add interest to the films a big leopard and two monkeys are carried. The animals occupy reserved places on the big truck.

Baptist Women as Afternoon Guests

Members of the Women's Auxiliaries of the First Baptist church were the guests of Auxiliary No. 1 at the home of Mrs. Albert Boggess, 1715 Columbus street, yesterday afternoon.

There are seven auxiliaries in the church. The members of each are hostesses once a month to the others. A musical program was carried out yesterday. A feature of the afternoon was a story, "The Great Guest Comes," told by Mrs. J. M. Dawson.

Following the formal program refreshments were served in rooms of the house, decorated in red and white and the usual hearts of Valentine time. About seventy-five were present.

Thirty-four Bales of Cotton

But thirty-four bales of cotton were marketed in Waco yesterday, according to the report of Sam Nix, public weigher. Prices ranged from 6c to 8 1/2c with basis middling quoted at 7 1/2c a pound.

Yesterday's sales were lighter than they have been for some time, the reason being hard to understand. The roads are in good condition and it is natural to expect larger sales.

TIME FOR THE FIRM HAND.

The very positive notes of the Washington government to England and Germany warning the former against the use of the American flag to secure the protection due neutral ships, and the latter against firing on American ships plying in waters which Germany has declared within the war zone will meet with a very hearty approval not only throughout the United States, but in every neutral country. Had a firmer hand been employed at Washington all along the American flag would never have been misused, some other undue assumption of authority by the British government would not have occurred, and Germany would not have had to be warned in this instance, for Germany would never have suggested firing on a ship flying the American flag had not England first exceeded her rights in relation to this country with almost perfect impunity.

England has no right whatever to instruct her ships to use the American or any other neutral flag when plying in danger zones and if the sharp note of Thursday is not complied with, the Washington government should resort to stronger means to enforce its desires. But we believe Great Britain will respect the note, as every moral obligation should compel her to, and having issued this firm demand upon England the equally firm message to Germany is sent in perfectly good grace.

The right of visit and search is the only right which the German or any other belligerent authorities have to exercise over vessels of neutral nations which the belligerents might have occasion to suspect, and this government is wholly within its rights when it insists that no further encroachment shall be made. The note to the German government is quite within the bounds of propriety when it asserts:

"If the commanders of German vessels of war act upon the presumption that the flag of the United States was not being used in good faith and should destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of American citizens, it would be difficult for the government of the United States to view the act in any other light than as an indefensible violation of neutral rights which it would be very hard indeed to reconcile with the friendly relations now so happily subsisting between the two governments."

"If such a deplorable situation should arise, the imperial German government can readily appreciate that the government of the United States would be constrained to hold the imperial German government to a strict accountability for such acts of their naval authorities and to take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas."

Of course we have known all along that Heavenly Houston has nothing to compare with Winsome Waco as a place to live, but we cannot understand why the Bayou metropolis has become so bad that its people are suiciding so rapidly. Ten persons have taken their own lives there within the past five weeks.

THE PENITENTIARY FLIGHT.

While the financial plight of the Texas penitentiary system, as revealed in the report of the house investigating committee, is not as shocking to our moral senses as were the methods of mistreating the prisoners, as divulged by the committee from the Thirtieth legislature, it is just as inexcusable. A woeful disregard for modern business methods is indicated, provided the report made to the house of representatives is accurate, and a laxness is suggested that amounts to nothing less than inefficiency, though the blame for this inefficiency is not definitely fixed.

There is no charge of corruption, we are glad to note, but millions of dollars of the state's money have been wasted that ought not to have been, and the old system of bookkeeping has been such that it is almost impossible to detect just where the various leaks have been operating. But the fact that $3,000,000 has been appropriated by the legislature to the penitentiary system within the past four years, and this has been expended and the system was still over $861,000 in debt at the beginning of this year is conclusive evidence that there has been large mismanagement of the penitentiary's resources.

It is quite true, we are sure, as Commissioner Stamps points out, that much of this is due to the extravagant perquisites furnished the commissioners and various other employees of the system in the way of handsome residences, free fuel, water, lights, ice, servants' help, and the like, free of charge. The commissioners are paid good salaries and the various other employees draw adequate wages and there is no reason why they should live at the expense of the state when they are being paid a cash compensation for their services. For one of the needed reforms, we suggest the cutting off of all perquisites of every character from all employees of the system, including the three commissioners.

A modern system of bookkeeping and accounting is sorely needed. Why the commissioners have gone thus far with an antiquated system by which it is impossible to locate definitely the sources of profit and loss is more than we can understand.

Every able-bodied prisoner should be put to work at that character of employment for which he is best fitted. The maintenance of a large number of men in idleness is wholly inexcusable, it appears from this angle, and if the commissioners were unable to provide work for them along the usual channels they should have provided a new channel for them and have seen to it that every prisoner contributed something to the upkeep of the system of which he is a member. We recognize, of course, that the burning of some of the factories at Rusk and Huntsville put some of the men out of employment, but the three commissioners ought to have been able ere this to have provided something else for the men to do, even though they should have adopted only an emergency measure.

And there is probably less excuse for this failure of the commissioners to find a market for the goods that have already been manufactured at the prison than for any of their shortcomings, for the report declares that the factories have been turning out wagons, furniture, boilers, engines, etc., that no effort has been made to sell anything but the furniture, and that the demand for the furniture is greater than the supply. The furniture factory evidently ought to be enlarged, and the 500 wagons and other manufactured articles on hand should be sold at once. One commissioner is quoted as saying that the fear of labor unions has prevented him from pushing the sale of the articles made by convict labor.

But the report says that when the box factory was operated at the Rusk prison the entire output of the factory was disposed of in Cuba, the West Indies and Central America, that the demand was much larger than the supply, and that the factory was operated at a decided profit. But the box factory was abandoned for some cause, though the machinery is still there and no reason appears why it should not be operated again to an advantage. An expert was put in charge of it, just as there should be in charge of every other manufacturing enterprise in the system.

All this lack of a continuous policy and general sound business methods constitutes a strong argument in itself for the placing of business men rather than politicians on the commission. The governor in picking the commissioners should get the best available men for the position, regardless of political considerations, for the interests of the state are too large to be sacrificed in the payment of a political debt.

We have come to doubt if a commission of three members, all living in Huntsville, and all having equal authority, is the best method of managing the penitentiary system. But there is plenty of room for improvement under this present system, and we hope the legislature will find some means for bringing it about.

A French statesman has calculated the exact amount of indemnity the allies will demand of Germany at the end of a year's war. The sum is $34,000,000. We commend to this Frenchman a famous recipe for rabbit stew, the first words of which are: "First, catch your rabbit."

The latest idea in saloonism is the giving away by Los Angeles saloonkeepers of a copy of a well known daily paper with each drink. It is unnecessary to comment on the policy of the paper which thus seeks to extend its circulation.

We are going to nominate candidates for the various city offices next Tuesday, but the man who failed to interview the tax collector before January 31 will have no voice in their selection.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD.

For a man to make good in the largest sense in the world it is necessary that he begin his development as a boy, but there is a chance for a man to overcome the shortcomings of his boyhood, to a certain extent, if he sets himself earnestly to the task after he reaches mature years.

In this connection there is some sage advice to men as well as boys in the following words of President Wilson to the national council of Boy Scouts, whom he presented with medals last Thursday:

"There is one rule in the world and it applies to all professions; that is, that you are expected to make good. No excuses are allowed in the school of life."

"The only way to make good is to keep awake. That is the reason I like the idea of Boy Scouts. It gives them some notion of their being responsible to society. They are responsible to the people who live around them to help maintain the standards of order and fidelity which are the only things that hold a community good."

"You are recruits in the ranks we all stand in, of those who try to serve the country in some way that will tell and that has nothing to do particularly with our own personal benefit."

"A man who devotes himself to the development of his own character will succeed in nothing except making a prig, but if he devotes himself to helping other people his character will not only take care of itself, but will grow to a very noble stature. I have always maintained, in the language of manufacture, that character is a by-product. If you set to work to make it because you love yourself, you make an ass. If you disregard the consequences to yourself, in order to serve other people, you will make a noble gentleman. That, I believe, is fundamentally decreed of an organization of this sort."

TRAVEL BOOKS BY UNCLE SAM.

Permit us to introduce Uncle Sam, publisher of geographies, books of travel and histories of curious places and people.

Uncle Sam has the largest printing office in the world and employs more writers than any other publisher. He has just issued a new price list entitled, "Geography, Travel, Exploration," in which are enumerated many government publications containing information regarding places at home and abroad. Any one of the publications may be had by forwarding a nominal sum covering cost of issue to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. Prices range from three cents to $9, most of the sums, however, being less than one dollar.

Numerous pamphlets listed in this collection describe different parts of the United States, geographically, geologically and historically. Inasmuch as Uncle Sam doesn't make any profit on his publishing business, or if he does make a profit it goes into the treasury for the benefit of the 100,000,000 Americans who constitute the government, The Morning News presents a partial list of the books for sale by Uncle Sam, but which he is too poor to advertise. Among them are:

Origin of Certain Place Names in the United States, price 20c.

Secret of Big Trees in California, price 5c.

Reports of the Governor of Arizona, prices ranging from 5c to 25c each. (These contain information about prehistoric ruins, canyons, climate, resources, etc.)

Papers Relating to Improvement of Washington, D. C., price (cloth) $1.

Areas of Acquisitions of Territory to the United States, price 25c.

Areas of United States, States and Territories (with map), price 10c.

Old Maps Relating to America, price (cloth) $1.50.

National Reservations for Protection of Wild Life, price 5c.

Aurora Borealis, Its Phenomenon and Laws, price 70c.

Icebergs and Their Location in Navigation, price 85c.

Among Uncle Sam's miscellaneous pamphlets and books dealing with other lands are such as:

German Colonies. (Account of the rise and development of German colonial possessions.) Price (cloth) $1.

Mediterranean Peoples, price (cloth) $1.

Iceland, Its History and Inhabitants, price (cloth) $1.25.

Capitals of America, price 25c.

Cathedrals of the New World. (North or South America), price 25c each.

A number of the publications deal with South American countries and capitals, Panama, Mexico, and the West Indies. Others deal with arctic and antarctic explorations; still others take the reader to strange places in Asia, Africa or Australia.

An exchange suggests that we stop the European war and grind the war dogs into sausage meat. Being a neutral, we do not care for any of the sausage, but that is a very satisfactory way of disposing of the agitators.

Letters from the People

An Open Letter to Bishop E. D. Mouzon.

The Morning News, by request, gives space to the following self-explanatory letter:

Granger, Tex., Feb. 11, 1915.

My Dear Bishop Mouzon:

Replying to yours of recent date in regard to the "new million dollar campaign, and the opening of S. M. U.," both for theological and academic work in September, next, beg to say: I am trying to be loyal to all the interests of our beloved church. But in pursuance of this policy I am some times confronted with what appears to be conflicting claims. In such cases, I am compelled to discriminate in the interest of that claim which seems to be the most deserving. Such is the case at present in the matter of our educational interests. It is, of course, too late to demur against the founding of Southern Methodist University. In my humble opinion from the start, the movement was destined to prove fruitless, but when Texas Methodism spoke through her conferences, I began at once to try to reorganize myself in accordance with her expression, and to prove my loyalty, made a liberal subscription in person, and did what I could to assist S. M. U. agents coming into my charge in the matter of soliciting. However, I believe, along with the big minority that voted in the late Dallas meeting, that the movement now on foot as outlined in your strenuous and emphatic letter, will, if it does not result in an abortion, issue in a humiliating deformity.

All business, big and little, all over the land, is hedging and consolidating to keep out of the hands of the receiver, and alas much of it is landing there anyhow, in the face of all this, here comes the Methodists of Texas, acting through those whom she has entrusted with ad interim authority, with schools now in operation that could with the help the church has promised them over and over again, take good care for the present at least, of her urgent needs, asking the fore-mentioned business men and the thousand and one farmers and mechanics who are often not able to pay their taxes and buy books and clothes to keep their children even in the public school, to help build in the past by contributing now from their wasted purse to open up another, which for a generation, can not hope to do a higher grade of work than the threatened victims have been doing throughout the years.

The people in the church and out, who in time past have contributed their money to the church to promote Christian education will not soon forget that an amazing sum of it has been used precipitately and unwisely, resulting in a fratricidal competition between schools doing a similar grade of work, that has strewn our great state with wreckage from Red River to the Mexican gulf. Even in view of these facts, it would appear that the gall Texas Methodists will never more be in doubt, whatever may be thought of their business acumen.

The people in the church and out, who in time past have contributed their money to the church to promote Christian education will not soon forget that an amazing sum of it has been used precipitately and unwisely, resulting in a fratricidal competition between schools doing a similar grade of work, that has strewn our great state with wreckage from Red River to the Mexican gulf. Even in view of these facts, it would appear that the gall Texas Methodists will never more be in doubt, whatever may be thought of their business acumen.

Public Opinion Backs up Generalissimo in Making Prohibition Absolute.

A dispatch to the London Times declares that the prohibition of the sale of beer and light wines subsequent to the prohibition of the sale of vodka in Russia was the direct result of action by the generalissimo, who called attention to the fact that wealthier classes should not be able to procure champagne when the peasants were deprived of vodka. His policy is evidently in accord with public opinion.

In England there is apparent a very rapidly growing sentiment against the drink traffic. Mrs. Parker, sister of Earl Kitchener, declares that between 20 and 40 per cent of the new soldiers are being rendered inefficient through drink and attendant evils, and she says that the prime minister admits the percentage to be from 10 to 15. Mrs. Parker says "Russia has done away with intoxicants. Why not Britain?"

Slight relief has been noted from the rule closing public houses until 11:30 in the morning. Dr. Wynn Westcott of London has been much more sober since this rule was made.

From "The Joyful Wisdom," by Friedrich Nietzsche.

I rejoice in all signs that a more manly, more warlike age is beginning, which will, before all things, bring bravery once more into the world. For it must prepare the way for a still loftier age, and store up the force necessary to it—that age, which shall carry heroism into the domain of knowledge and wars on behalf of ideas and their consequences.

Believe me, the secret of extracting the greatest profit and enjoyment from existence is this: live dangerously. Build your cities on Vesuvius. Launch your ships on uncharted seas. Live at the edge of the abyss. Live with yourselves. Be robbers and conquerors. Ye ought to be robbers, so long as ye cannot be rulers and possessors.

The Old Girl and New

The old-fashioned girl—where has she gone—
With her elbows bared and her apron on?
With ways domestic, shy and prim,
Who went to church and sang her hymn,
The maid who sat demure and meek,
Who never put paint on her cheek,
Where has she vanished? Tell me, please,
I cannot find her days like these.

The new-fashioned girl is here instead,
With cute spilt curl and on her head
A hat that'd knock you simply dead,
And a slouching walk like the ostrich tread,
And a line of talk that's full of slang,
As a wagger's full of wag.

Oh, the new-fashioned girl, in her stylish suit
Of a putty shade like her putty boot,
With skirt quite short and very flare,
Oh, she's so very debonaire,
But I'll bet you a dime she doesn't know
A nutmeg from a piece of dough.

And a wash board—gee! I'll bet she thinks
It's a musical instrument, by Jinks.
'Twould be a shame in that gown to stoop
And feed the chickens out in the coop.
Or wash the dishes—oh, zounds—and

You're crazy to even think such a thing.
She golfs and bridges and autos—oh—
She's up on suffrage, eugenics, too,
She plays the classics as slick as you please.

But she'll never dust off the piano keys,
The new-fashioned girl is all right but, gee—
The old-fashioned girl, too, looked good to me.

WHAT HAS BEEN SHOWN BY SIX MONTHS OF WAR

Let Texas Feed Itself.

The opening skirmish in the campaign to induce Texas to feed itself has been fought out and while the battle is far from won, the skirmishers made a most satisfactory impression.

Over one hundred towns were visited last week by evangelists from Dallas and Fort Worth and they went right to the root of the matter. They conferred with the banker who is to furnish the money; the merchant who is to furnish the credit and the landowner who is to furnish the land on which the next crops in Texas are to be grown. They made as plain as a pipe stem the fact that this campaign is in no sense an acreage reduction proposition insofar as cotton is concerned. Everyone knows that in the cotton section, cotton is the money crop and the basis of both credit and prosperity. But they did not stop there. They went further and showed to raise all cotton and spend every dollar he can rake and scrape for feed for his animals and food for his family. And a further fact was emphasized: The cotton farmer who for years has mortgaged his crop before it was planted for food on which to subsist while he was making that crop, is apt to find this year that the merchant who fed him last year and the banker who financed that merchant, neither of whom has been able to collect last year's accounts, are not going to be in position to advance the same line of credit this year. The have sounded the warning that the farmer must think about feeding himself and make his plans accordingly.

Ways and means of helping the farmer do this have been outlined and discussed. It is admitted the farmer will have to have help in order to meet this condition. He will have to have credit to secure a sow or two and seed

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD MAKES RULING

NATIONAL BANKS AUTHORIZED TO PURCHASE ACCEPTANCES UNDER REGULATIONS.

IN ACCORD WITH EUROPE

Circular Issued Announces Details Surrounding Financial Transactions.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Another step in the development of American finance designed to bring it more in accord with that of other nations was taken by the federal reserve board today when it issued regulations governing the discount or purchase of bankers' acceptances.

The federal reserve act authorized national banks to purchase acceptances based on the importation or exportation of goods and the board's regulations indicate how banks may avail themselves of the aid of the federal reserve banks in securing the re-discount of such paper and lay down the lines by which the reserve banks themselves will be guided in purchases of acceptances in the open market. Before the federal reserve act was passed domestic dealings in acceptances were confined to state banks, trust companies and private banks. How far American banks now may proceed in taking away from London a share of this business, a considerable part of which is done with South America, officials here do not now pretend to know.

Although under today's regulations the reserve banks are not barred from outright purchases of acceptances, the board indicates a preference for the purchase of such paper presented by member or other banks. The board announces that acceptances must be "payable in dollars, in the United States, and payable toward making the dollar at least one of the mediums of international exchange."

Much Time Taken.
Weeks have been spent by the board in preparing the regulations and many conferences have been held with the advisory council, composed of members of federal reserve banks and the federal reserve agents.

"The acceptance is still in its infancy in the field of American banking," the board says in a circular. "How rapid its development will be cannot be foretold, but the development itself is certain. Opportunity is given by the federal reserve act to assist the movement in this new direction."

The circular adds that present regulations are to be regarded as a first step, to be extended as circumstances warrant.

"The acceptance is the standard form of paper in the world discount market," it continues. "By reason of its being readily marketable it is widely regarded as a most desirable paper in the secondary reserve of banks and will help to provide an effective substitute for the call loan. Its growth, however, will depend upon the ability of the American market to adjust its rates effectively to those prevailing in other markets for paper of this class."

Rule Promulgated.
"Federal reserve banks may from time to time submit for the approval of the board maximum and minimum rates within which they desire to be authorized to deal in acceptances; within such limits and subject to such modifications as may be imposed by the board, federal reserve banks will be allowed to establish at the rates at which they deal in acceptances."

The board says preferential treatment should be allowed on acceptances bearing the indorsement of member banks and will sanction such a preferential, but points out that federal reserve banks which desire to purchase such paper must not so indorse it as to make it a security for the drawer and acceptor, preferably that of a bank or banker.

An acceptance, the regulations say, must bear or be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to a reserve bank that it originated in an actual bona fide sale of consignment involving importation or exportation of goods.

"In framing this policy with respect to acceptances," says the board, federal reserve banks will have to consider not only local demands to be expected from their members but also the needs of the market in other districts. The plan to be followed must in each case adapt itself to the constantly varying needs of the country."

Bills Reported Favorably.
Austin, Tex., Feb. 12.—The bill introduced by Senator Clark which provides for a committee on labor of the law creating the state insurance commission was today reported favorably by senate committee on insurance.

Senator Townsend gave notice of an adverse minority. A number of insurance men and Commissioner of Insurance and Banking Patterson were present, but engaged in little debate on the proposition, as the measure had been thoroughly discussed before. This committee also reported favorably the Henderson bill, known as the insurance agents' commission bill. As the bill now stands it provides for a flat commission of 12 per cent and with a contingent commission of 14 per cent.

The Darwin bill, which amends the act of the last legislature which repealed the co-insurance clause in fire insurance policies, was reported unfavorably, but Senator McCollum gave notice of a favorable minority report. The bill provides that insurance companies may use the co-insurance clause, provided they reduce the rate on the policy 10 per cent and advise the insurer that the co-insurance clause is being used.

Senate committee on state affairs reported favorably the McGee bill which provides for the sale of the property of the present blind institute and remove the institution to a new locality. It carries an appropriation of $435,000 for the first two years. This includes funds for the acquisition of land and erection of buildings.

Senate committee on education reported favorably the McNeel bill regulating the sale of convict-made goods; also favorably reported the Hudspeth bill enlarging the scope of the duties of the state inspector of masonry, so as to provide for inspections of public buildings of municipalities. This committee last night reported favorably the welfare commission and minimum wage bill for women which had been Hudspeth's bill validating real estate conveyances; by McNeel, providing for the collection of delinquent taxes and outlying taxes previous to 1905; by Harley, creating a state tax board of equalization; by Morrow, increasing the pay of district judges to $3,500; by Bee, requiring applicants for license to practice law to apply to the board of examiners located in the district in which such applicant resides; by Haney, regulating the employment of stenographers by courts of civil appeals.

Texas A. & M. Bill Up.
Austin, Tex., Feb. 12.—After giving extensive hearings on the proposed measure separating the University of Texas and the A. & M. college and providing for a change in the board of regents for these institutions, the committee on constitutional amendments of the house has set tomorrow morning for the final decision. The committee has before it two house joint resolutions, one by Sackett, providing for the separation of the two schools and an equitable division of the funds; the other is by Haney and others, providing for the separation of the two institutions and fixing a permanent income. Both resolutions provide that each school shall be distinctly separated and shall have separate boards of directors.

The committee on common carriers of the house started hearings this morning on the Lane bill, which seeks to place all telephone and telegraph lines under jurisdiction of the state railroad commission. The hearing will be continued tonight.
The committee on municipal corporations reported favorably the bill enacting the power of cities and towns to lands necessary to operation of public utilities.

Deficiency Bill Signed.
Austin, Feb. 12.—Governor Ferguson today signed and approved the deficiency bill which carries appropriations amounting to $650,000; included in the bill is the $200,000 for the construction of a $200,000 for the governor's mansion. In approving this item, the governor acted contrary to the opinion of the attorney general who held that the legislature exceeded its authority in making an appropriation for fuel, ice, groceries, etc. for the governor's mansion.

This deficiency bill also included an appropriation for $352,000 for the University of Texas; $60,000 to pay the members of the National Guard for services rendered while protecting the border. Another important item in this bill is one for $3000 for the enforcement of the liquor law. This item was not in the original bill as introduced by Senator Cowell, in the senate, but at the request of the comptroller Terrell it was tacked on in the house and concurred in by the senate.

Dishwashing Bill Signed.
Austin, Feb. 12.—The governor today signed the bill by Senator Novotny which requires hotels, boarding houses and restaurants to sterilize their dishes, this bill being known as the "dishwashing bill." He also signed the bill reorganizing the Thirtieth judicial district and creating the Seventy-seventh composed of Limestone and Freestone counties. A. M. Blackburn of Groesbeck was appointed judge of this court.

Cope Bill is Killed.
Austin, Feb. 12.—After consuming the whole morning on the Cope delinquent tax bill, the house killed it by a vote of 53 to 45. This measure called for the enforcement of the collection of some $10,000,000 of delinquent taxes, dating back as far as 1890.

The following bills were introduced in the house today:
By Haney, Florer and Davis, authorizing the formation and extension of corporations for generation, manufacture and transportation of gas, electric current and power, the purpose of the authors being to allow gas and electricity to be extended to the Southern Methodist University at Dallas; by Hland, requiring operators of cotton warehouses for hire to give bond for protection of cotton in certain kinds of warehouses; house joint resolution by Tillotson and Savage of Bell, proposing a constitutional amendment granting authority to districts to vote additional ad valorem taxes for road purposes.

Governor's Appointees.
Austin, Feb. 12.—A message was sent to the senate this afternoon by the governor for the confirmation of these appointees: Judge A. M. Blackburn of Limestone county, to be judge of the Seventy-seventh judicial district court; Judge E. W. Nicholson of Wichita Falls, to be judge of the Wichita county district court, just created; H. A. Brehnan, a farmer of Williamson county, to be a member of the board of managers of the A. & M. College; V. M. Ehlers of Fayette county, to be an inspector under the state board of health.

Would Sue Insurance Companies.
Austin, Feb. 12.—Senator Briscoe this afternoon introduced a concurrent resolution in the senate authorizing and directing the attorney general to proceed against the nine insurance companies that withdrew from Texas in 1907 on account of the enactment of the reformation insurance law, for the enforcement of the collection of back taxes and accrued penalties due the state by these companies. The amount exceeds a million dollars.

Bill James Insists Must Have More Pay to Pitch This Year
Boston, Feb. 12.—Bill James, one of the men who pitched the Boston Nationals to a world's championship last fall, wrote to a friend here today that he was negotiating for an increase in salary. His three-year contract signed last July when the Bostonians were still low in the league standing, calls for $4000 a year. It is understood the big Californian wants $4600.

Agent Slain by Villa?
President Gaffney, according to President Nickerson, has told James that he must play for $4000 or not play at all. In the letter received today James said he understood the binding provisions of the contract and added, "it is my present intention not to report this season unless my demands are granted."

Texas Overwhelms Baylor at Austin
Austin, Feb. 12.—Baylor University was easily defeated by the University of Texas at basketball today, score 52 to 16. Baylor played a listless game and at no time were the tough shots in danger. Littlefield, center for Texas, was the star, throwing eleven goals and six fouls, a total of 28 points.

Schulkey for Baylor worked hard, but on account of the close guarding of Edmond he could not hit the baskets. Harrell played a good game, also. The line-up:

Bill James Insists Must Have More Pay to Pitch This Year

Boston, Feb. 12.—Bill James, one of the men who pitched the Boston Nationals to a world's championship last fall, wrote to a friend here today that he was negotiating for an increase in salary. His three-year contract signed last July when the Bostonians were still low in the league standing, calls for $4000 a year. It is understood the big Californian wants $4600.

Agent Slain by Villa?
President Gaffney, according to President Nickerson, has told James that he must play for $4000 or not play at all. In the letter received today James said he understood the binding provisions of the contract and added, "it is my present intention not to report this season unless my demands are granted."

Cotton.

New Orleans, Feb. 12.—Cotton was under pressure from the bear side throughout the session today and closed practically at the lowest at a net loss of 10 to 13 points. Poor cables started the selling on the opening and afterwards short offerings increased on bearish talk regarding the political developments of the last day or two. The American notes to foreign governments and England's threats to blockade the German coast caused the most comment.

For a while, soon after the middle of the day, the market was steadied by the mill takings for the week, 342,000 bales, which were somewhat larger than expected, but their effect was quickly lost in the lowering of spot prices at several southern centers, including New Orleans, which marked the price down 1-16c.

Exports to foreign countries were large, 68,489 bales, but did not affect prices. Exports for the week were 297,812 bales, making it one of the largest export weeks of the season.

Weekly Cotton Review.

New York, Feb. 12.—The nervousness in the cotton trade circles last week over the immediate effect on shipping conditions of the extension of the naval war zone, has been relieved to some extent by the continuation of the heavy export movement, but trading has been quiet and there has been no material change in prices.

Steadiness in the southern spot markets and the continued absence of any important selling here against actual cotton has encouraged buyers of contracts on comparatively moderate declines, while realizing has been encountered on advances and many think that the week's business has reflected a reduction in the outstanding interest, owing partly to uncertainty regarding the administration and interpretation of certain technical details in the cotton futures law which goes into effect on February 15.

Up to the close of business last night, the New York cotton exchange had not been supplied with the separate types of times and stains deliverable on the new contract, while there was still uncertainty with reference to the ruling of the department of agriculture on the question of delivering mixed packed bales and it was said that southern shippers could not figure closely upon the price that could make shipments here for contract delivery profitable until these points had been determined.

Once the new contract machinery is in smooth working order, it is said that southern shippers will soon familiarize themselves with its conditions and that proper parties between New York, Liverpool and the southern markets will be determined.

Meanwhile sentiment as to the more usual factors appear to be more or less divided between those who are looking for ultimately higher prices on the general proposition that values are too low to encourage production and the more heavily disposed traders, who feel that the south is willing to sell freely at the present market and may offer cotton more urgently as new crop preparations are made more general while market opinions are naturally more or less contingent upon war developments.

Income Tax Law Goes Up.

Boston, Feb. 12.—The United States supreme court will be called upon to determine the constitutionality of the income tax law as applied to mining companies. The district court in dismissing today a bill in equity of John R. Stanton of New York, which sought to restrain the officers of the Baltimore Mining company from paying an income tax on the ground that it was unconstitutional, allowed an appeal. The only question involved, the court held, was a constitutional one.

Beekers Request Passage of Law to Help Their Industry

A resolution asking the aid of the Texas legislature to exterminate foul brood among bees was passed at the meeting of the Beekers' Association, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Amicable building yesterday morning. A copy of the resolution, accompanied by personal letters from the members, will be sent to each McLennan county representative at Austin asking them to support the bill which will be introduced in the house by Representative Lewis Scholl of New Braunfels, a prominent beekeeper. The association also adopted a uniform label to be used on the product of every member. In addition, each article will bear the producer's individual label. The association will guarantee the quality of all products bearing both labels. Co-operative buying of supplies was also determined upon and a purchasing committee appointed.

On account of the press of private business, W. H. Davis, resigned as secretary-treasurer of the organization. M. B. White was elected to succeed Mr. Davis.

The beekkeeping industry in McLennan county is quite considerable in extent. A great part of the honey used on the local market is produced in Waco. In the county there are approximately 2,500 colonies of bees. The local supply of honey is ready for the market about July. In this respect the honey of California and South Texas has the advantage of the McLennan county product. In the McLennan range blossoms, which bloom early in the year. In South Texas there are early-flowering shrubs that permit the crop to be marketed by May or June. In this section the principal source is horsemint, which begins to bloom in the latter part of May.

The next meeting of the association will be held Friday, April 9, in the county court house. Letters are being sent out urging all beekkeepers of the county to attend and affiliate themselves with the organization.

WHO IS VELVET JOE?

Have You Made Your Guess as to the Identity of the Genial Kentucky Philosopher?

"Who is Velvet Joe?" That is a question which bids fair to rank with the historic ones concerning the exact age of Ann and "Who struck Billy Patterson?"

Since the philosophical sayings and verse from the pen of the sunny tobacco grower and thinker from Kentucky first appeared in the newspapers and magazines, rumors have been rife as to his identity. Several professional humorists have already pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of being "alias Velvet Joe." And still, from out behind impenetrable mystery flashes Velvet Joe's cheery wit and tender sentiment, smiting the praises of the good tobacco he grows in old "Kaintucky."

But what matter who Joe is, as long as his smiling face greets us as we open our morning papers, as long as his cheery "Good Mornin'" is a feature of the morning editions? Who is Velvet Joe? Why, don't you know? He's the patron saint of pipe smokers. He takes the place of old Santa Claus for those of us who have put on long pants and have to shave. He's the friend who visits us by our firesides, in our shops and offices, telling us to light up our pipes and remember that clouds have silver linings, and that if it didn't rain there'd never be any rainbows with pots of gold at the end of them. He is the sort of optimist you find so often among men who love their pipes, and draw from them the sunny contentment that Nature instills into the mellow Burley leaf.

Who is Velvet Joe? Ask the man who runs the cigar store on the corner. He will say: "Oh, he's a friend of mine that's helping me sell Velvet Smoking Tobacco. He's one of those cheerful fellows that always has time to be kind and courteous and smiling even when he's talking business."

"I wish there were more like him."

So what does it matter what Velvet Joe's last name is? We know his face and we know his sentiments, but still—

Now this is merely a suggestion. If there are any Sherlock Holmeses of an investigating turn of mind in the vicinity of Lexington, in the Blue Grass country, sub—

And if these inquisitive ones should run across a gentleman with a cheery disposition and a drooping white mustache who should a marked preference for a tobacco called "Velvet," perhaps—

They might "have the goods" on Velvet Joe himself.

Be that as it may, we are glad to say that Velvet Joe will continue to be a regular contributor to our columns.

Will Discuss Plans for Primary Today

F. E. B.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, needed the kind of warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives the permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through arteries and veins, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

Removal Notice. Dr. W. S. Witte, formerly of the Curtis & Witte sanitarium, is now located in the Amicable building, rooms 11, 12, 13. Office hours, 10-12 and 2-4. Both phones 132.—(Adv.)

CULVER ADDRESSES LIST OF GOODSMADE BOYS ON EDUCATION HERE BEING PREPARED

HIGH SCHOOL CLUB HEARS INTERESTING TALK BY MINISTER AT Y. M. C. A.

MOLDING PROCESS DISCUSSED

Developing Every Side of Character Urged—San Antonio Man to Be Speaker Next Week.

Dr. F. P. Culver, pastor of the Austin Avenue Methodist church, addressed a large assembly of boys of the high school club at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. His subject was "Education, Its Difficulties and Benefits."

The speaker said that the easy problems in life never enable persons to conquer overwhelming odds or resist temptations, but tend to weaken the moral nature and reduce the grip on manhood. The "primrose path of ease" was never traversed by one, who later did not become a menace to industrial institutions, and a burden on the population. Don't choose the simple piece of work or the task which offers the least resistance, but prepare yourself for a man's work by being fully equipped in a mental, moral and physical way, he urged.

The purpose of an education is to carry the person through a molding process until he is fitted to the world, said Dr. Culver. Education has a tendency to produce three distinct effects on a man, namely, on his intellect, his heart and his muscles, and when these phases of human life are fully developed, an all-round man is the result. Life can't be divided into sections, that is, caring for one part of one's character and letting the others sink into oblivion. One who is a structure makes the latter in a secure, so with human life. If a person only developed his muscular or physical instincts, the qualities of the nature or heart would only be exhibited, and if his mental characteristics were always prevalent, skepticism would soon become apparent. Therefore, an education should treat of a man's entire being.

And then an education should be sought eagerly by all classes as it is within the grasp of everyone. The speaker cited the early example of the late Dr. Rankin, who was a poor mountain boy thirty for knowledge. He walked 125 miles to a small village academy in Tennessee, studied there for three years, without money, and then worked his way through a large university.

No matter what degree of efficiency a man's brain may have attained, his spirit may be corrupt. He could be a liar, thief, or a kind of criminal, said Dr. Culver. His attitude toward life makes him have these low instincts, which prove that he received wrong impressions when in the formative period. An education produces a right relationship between a man and the world.

Dr. Culver urged the boys not to think that the least amount of education received was good enough, but to seek more than their individual share. If a person marches up to difficulty, sees great obstacles, and then backs down, he loses most of his self-respect. "Don't use any one else's work," he said, "but exercise your initiative and cut your own niche in the path of human progress," he said.

Rev. D. R. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist church of San Antonio, will be the speaker next week. His subject will be, "The Bible as Literature." The following week Judge Gordon Russell will probably speak his subject being "The Federal Court."

The following ladies served the supper: Mesdames L. R. Armstrong, T. S. Montgomery, Louis Wiebusch.

WACO CITIZENS WILL BE INFORMED AS TO WHAT IS BEING MADE IN CITY.

ENERGETIC CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Manufacturers to Back Y. M. B. L. in Concerted Effort to Boost All Home Industries.

A campaign for advertising made in Waco products will be started immediately by the publicity committee of the Y. M. B. L. and will be financed by the Waco Manufacturers' association. A joint meeting of the Y. M. B. L. committee and the publicity committee of the manufacturers, of which J. S. Hill is chairman, was held yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

A report made by Mr. Hill and his committee to a meeting of the manufacturers last night at the Chamber of Commerce brought an enthusiastic response from over twenty Waco manufacturers and it was decided to enter immediately into a campaign of education and publicity. The plan of the Y. M. B. L. is to bring to the attention of Waco people the many products that are made in Waco, and to increase the consumption of Waco-made goods. The movement was started some time ago by the Y. M. B. L. At the suggestion of the league, the manufacturers organized with J. M. Rhoads president and F. M. Longley secretary.

The plan, but it was thought the campaign on, as a matter of community interest, thus removing any selfish motive that might be implied, if the manufacturers undertook to handle it themselves.

"Of course, the movement is more or less selfish," said a director of the Y. M. B. L. last night, "but it is also a matter that is of civic interest as well. Every dollar that is spent for Waco-made products goes partly to pay for Waco labor. The profit goes to the Waco manufacturer, who will, in turn, spend a portion of it to increase his business. Increasing the output of local manufacturing concerns is better than bringing new factories to Waco."

J. B. Dismukes, president of the Allied Printing council, appeared at the meeting of manufacturers last night and spoke in the interest of his organization. E. P. Drake, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, made an interesting address in the interests of the "Made-in-Waco" campaign. W. W. Crawford, member of the Y. M. B. L. directorate and of the Waco Ad. club, also spoke.

The report of J. S. Hill, chairman of the publicity committee, showed that the estimates were the best prepared of any he had ever read. During the last year he has visited counties in many states, gathering data as to their road systems.

Street Car Service to End of Clay St. Promised Tuesday

The Southern Traction company will open through service to the end of the Clay street line Tuesday. The line has been blocked by the paving of Clay street. Cars now run to Seventeenth. They will go through to Twentieth by Tuesday.

The company is double tracking, only one side of the street being paved. The line will be operated on the single track for some time.

The Traction company will not extend its line on Washington and make a loop to Austin on Eighth as was contemplated.
